MARYLAND CALENDAR OF WILLS

KEY.

The name of the testator is in Bold Type; those persons bearing relationship to the testator, if stated in the will, are in bold type also. All others are in Roman Type. The county of testator follows the name in the same line if it is given in the will itself, and if none appears in the abstract the inference must be drawn that it is lacking in the will.

The dates of drawing and of the probate of each are placed one above the other, opposite the name of testator; that of probate under that of drawing. If either date does not appear in the Calendar a line of dashes is placed in the respective place to indicate the fact that it is lacking in the will as recorded, and if, as is the case in a few instances, neither date of drawing nor that of probate appears in the will, a double line of dashes is substituted.

The numbers at the foot of each abstract give the number of the book and the page from which it has been taken. The book numbers and not the old liber numbers are used, this being in accordance with the system usual with genealogists in making notes from these books.

It will be seen that in many instances overseers or trustees are named by testators. The custom now being obsolete it is best explained by a quotation from one of the wills where a testator, after designating several friends for the office, adds: "who shall assist the executrix in the care of the estate that neither she nor the children be wronged!"

Nunc. placed after a name indicates that the will was a nuncupative one.

Young. is used in the calendar as the abbreviation of youngest.

Test., the abbreviation of testis and testes, has been adopted in accordance with the custom of the times rather than the more modern term of witnesses. The other abbreviations and terms are so simple that explanation of them seems needless, since they do not differ from those in ordinary use.

THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

The history of the United States is a story of growth and change. It begins with the first settlers, who came to the continent in search of a better life. They found a land of opportunity, but also one of conflict. The struggle for independence was a long and hard one, but it was worth it. The United States emerged as a new nation, one that was free and independent. This was a great achievement, and it was one that the world had never seen before. The United States was born, and it was a new beginning for the world.

The United States has since grown into a great nation, one that has led the world in many ways. It has been a pioneer in many fields, and it has been a leader in many others. It has been a nation of freedom and opportunity, and it has been a nation of progress and innovation. The United States has been a nation of many firsts, and it has been a nation of many achievements. It has been a nation that has made a difference in the world, and it has been a nation that has inspired the world.

The first of these is the fact that the United States is a young nation. It is only about 150 years old, and its history is therefore a history of rapid growth and change. The second fact is that the United States is a large nation. It covers a vast area of land, and its population is one of the largest in the world. The third fact is that the United States is a diverse nation. It is made up of many different peoples, races, and religions, and this diversity has been one of its strengths.

The fourth fact is that the United States is a nation of immigrants. Most of the people who live in the United States today are the descendants of immigrants from other countries. This has made the United States a melting pot of different cultures and traditions. The fifth fact is that the United States is a nation of pioneers. From the first settlers to the present day, Americans have been known for their spirit of adventure and their willingness to explore new frontiers.

The sixth fact is that the United States is a nation of freedom. The American people have always valued their freedom, and this has been one of the main reasons for the success of the United States. The seventh fact is that the United States is a nation of progress. Americans have always been interested in new ideas and new inventions, and this has led to many of the great achievements of modern civilization.

The eighth fact is that the United States is a nation of peace. Although there have been many wars in the history of the United States, the American people have always been peace-loving. The ninth fact is that the United States is a nation of justice. The American people have always believed in the rights of every individual, and this has led to many of the great reforms of the past century.

The tenth fact is that the United States is a nation of hope. The American people have always believed in a better future, and this has been one of the main reasons for the success of the United States. The history of the United States is a history of many great achievements, and it is a history that continues to inspire and激励 the people of the world.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general survey of the history of science in the last century. It is divided into three sections: (a) the history of the natural sciences, (b) the history of the social sciences, and (c) the history of the human sciences.

2. The second part of the paper is devoted to a detailed study of the history of the natural sciences. It is divided into two sections: (a) the history of the physical sciences, and (b) the history of the biological sciences. In the first section, the author discusses the development of the physical sciences from the time of the ancient Greeks to the present. He shows how the physical sciences have been dominated by the search for a unified theory of the universe, and how this search has led to the development of the theory of relativity and quantum mechanics. In the second section, the author discusses the development of the biological sciences from the time of the ancient Greeks to the present. He shows how the biological sciences have been dominated by the search for a unified theory of life, and how this search has led to the development of the theory of evolution and the modern synthesis.

3. The third part of the paper is devoted to a detailed study of the history of the social sciences. It is divided into two sections: (a) the history of the social sciences, and (b) the history of the human sciences. In the first section, the author discusses the development of the social sciences from the time of the ancient Greeks to the present. He shows how the social sciences have been dominated by the search for a unified theory of society, and how this search has led to the development of the theory of social Darwinism and the modern synthesis.

4. The fourth part of the paper is devoted to a detailed study of the history of the human sciences. It is divided into two sections: (a) the history of the human sciences, and (b) the history of the human sciences. In the first section, the author discusses the development of the human sciences from the time of the ancient Greeks to the present. He shows how the human sciences have been dominated by the search for a unified theory of the human mind, and how this search has led to the development of the theory of psychoanalysis and the modern synthesis.

5. The fifth part of the paper is devoted to a detailed study of the history of the human sciences. It is divided into two sections: (a) the history of the human sciences, and (b) the history of the human sciences. In the first section, the author discusses the development of the human sciences from the time of the ancient Greeks to the present. He shows how the human sciences have been dominated by the search for a unified theory of the human mind, and how this search has led to the development of the theory of psychoanalysis and the modern synthesis.

6. The sixth part of the paper is devoted to a detailed study of the history of the human sciences. It is divided into two sections: (a) the history of the human sciences, and (b) the history of the human sciences. In the first section, the author discusses the development of the human sciences from the time of the ancient Greeks to the present. He shows how the human sciences have been dominated by the search for a unified theory of the human mind, and how this search has led to the development of the theory of psychoanalysis and the modern synthesis.

1. The first step in the process of determining the relative importance of the various factors which enter into the problem is to determine the relative importance of the various factors which enter into the problem. This is done by assigning a weight to each factor, and then multiplying the weight by the value of the factor. The result is then added to the sum of the other factors, and the total is divided by the number of factors. This gives the average value of the factors, and this is the relative importance of the factors.

The first of these is the fact that the United States is a young nation. It has only been about 150 years since it was founded. This is a very short time in the history of the world. The second is the fact that the United States is a large nation. It covers a vast area of land, and has a large population. This makes it difficult to govern. The third is the fact that the United States is a diverse nation. It has many different races, religions, and languages. This makes it difficult to unite.

The fourth is the fact that the United States is a free nation. It has a long history of freedom, and it is one of the few nations in the world that has never been conquered. This makes it difficult to control.

The fifth is the fact that the United States is a powerful nation. It has a large army, a large navy, and a large economy. This makes it difficult to challenge.

The sixth is the fact that the United States is a democratic nation. It has a system of government in which the people have a say in the way the country is run. This makes it difficult to change.

The seventh is the fact that the United States is a nation of immigrants. It has been built by people from many different parts of the world. This makes it difficult to understand.

The eighth is the fact that the United States is a nation of pioneers. It has a long history of exploration and discovery. This makes it difficult to predict.

The ninth is the fact that the United States is a nation of inventors. It has many famous inventors, and it is the birthplace of many new technologies. This makes it difficult to keep up with.

The tenth is the fact that the United States is a nation of dreamers. It has a long history of people who have dreamed of a better life. This makes it difficult to achieve.

The eleventh is the fact that the United States is a nation of heroes. It has many famous heroes, and it is the home of many great deeds. This makes it difficult to live up to.

The twelfth is the fact that the United States is a nation of hope. It has a long history of people who have hoped for a better future. This makes it difficult to give up.

The thirteenth is the fact that the United States is a nation of love. It has a long history of people who have loved their country. This makes it difficult to hate.

The fourteenth is the fact that the United States is a nation of faith. It has a long history of people who have had faith in their country. This makes it difficult to doubt.

The fifteenth is the fact that the United States is a nation of courage. It has a long history of people who have been brave. This makes it difficult to be afraid.

The sixteenth is the fact that the United States is a nation of justice. It has a long history of people who have fought for justice. This makes it difficult to be unfair.

The seventeenth is the fact that the United States is a nation of peace. It has a long history of people who have sought peace. This makes it difficult to be at war.

The eighteenth is the fact that the United States is a nation of unity. It has a long history of people who have worked together. This makes it difficult to be divided.

The nineteenth is the fact that the United States is a nation of progress. It has a long history of people who have moved forward. This makes it difficult to stay behind.

The twentieth is the fact that the United States is a nation of hope. It has a long history of people who have dreamed of a better life. This makes it difficult to give up.

The twenty-first is the fact that the United States is a nation of love. It has a long history of people who have loved their country. This makes it difficult to hate.

The twenty-second is the fact that the United States is a nation of faith. It has a long history of people who have had faith in their country. This makes it difficult to doubt.

The twenty-third is the fact that the United States is a nation of courage. It has a long history of people who have been brave. This makes it difficult to be afraid.

the same time, the government was also engaged in a campaign to suppress the slave trade. In 1807, the United States passed a law that prohibited the export of slaves from the country. This law was a direct result of the American Revolution and the growing sentiment against slavery.

The following table shows the number of slaves imported into the United States from 1807 to 1863. The data is based on the records of the United States Customs Service.

The table shows that the number of slaves imported into the United States was relatively low from 1807 to 1820. However, there was a significant increase in the number of slaves imported in the years 1821 through 1840. This increase was due to a combination of factors, including the growing demand for slaves in the Southern States and the increasing number of ships that were allowed to import slaves into the country. The number of slaves imported into the United States peaked in the year 1840, with over 10,000 slaves being imported. After 1840, the number of slaves imported into the United States declined sharply, and by 1863, the number of slaves imported was very low.

The first thing that I noticed when I stepped out of the car was a cold blast of air. It was a relief, after the warm blanket of the car. I looked up at the sky and saw a few stars. It was a beautiful night.

I was not alone. I was surrounded by a crowd of people. They were all looking at me with curiosity. I was a stranger in a strange land. I was a man of science, and they were a people of superstition. I was a man of the future, and they were a people of the past.

My first night in the city was a night of discovery. I was a man of science, and I was a man of the future. I was a man of the future, and I was a man of science.

I was a man of science, and I was a man of the future. I was a man of the future, and I was a man of science. I was a man of science, and I was a man of the future. I was a man of the future, and I was a man of science.

My first night in the city was a night of discovery. I was a man of science, and I was a man of the future. I was a man of the future, and I was a man of science.

I was a man of science, and I was a man of the future. I was a man of the future, and I was a man of science. I was a man of science, and I was a man of the future. I was a man of the future, and I was a man of science.

My first night in the city was a night of discovery. I was a man of science, and I was a man of the future. I was a man of the future, and I was a man of science.
